

JOB DESCRIPTION

Job Title: Lecturer (Teaching) / Senior Lecturer (Teaching) in Dementia Studies	Band AC2 – AC3: £33,796 - £49,554 Opportunity to progress to £54,131
School: School of Allied Health and Community
Department: Association for Dementia Studies
Reporting directly to: Director of the Association for Dementia Studies
Supervisory responsibility for: N/A
Other Contacts  Internal: Academic and Professional Service colleagues within the School; Association for Dementia Studies; Academic Course Committees; Research Groups; Head of School.  External: Education Commissioners; Care Providers; CCGs; Councils; Charities; Service User Groups.
Main Duties  1. To work collaboratively with the Association for Dementia Studies and School leadership team on the strategic direction and business plan for the Association for Dementia Studies.  2. To contribute to external education provision (masterclasses, short-courses and action learning sets) taking a lead on these where appropriate  3. To deliver and co-ordinate external education provision in locations across the UK and overseas when required.  4. To contribute to university accredited modules in dementia related topics across the Schools and to act as module leader if appropriate.  5. To act as module leader for the PG Cert in Person-Centred Dementia Studies and subsequent postgraduate provision overtime  6. To develop curricula and education modules within the area of expertise  7. To work with health, care and community organisations in their development of plans for implementing person-centred care through consultancy, training and follow-up  8. To develop new short courses and practice development products  9. Develop strong working partnership with relevant local and national bodies.  10. Accept responsibility for promoting and safeguarding the welfare of vulnerable adults.  11. Actively engage in scholarship, and professional/academic publication to ensure a growing evidence base within dementia studies.

12. Participate fully in the life of the School and University, and carry out any other reasonable duties as requested by the Head of School or her/his nominee. *The above does not represent an exhaustive list of duties associated with this role.

Selection methods:

Shortlisted candidates will be invited to a formal panel interview, and also asked to deliver a teaching session to the following brief:

Please deliver a 15-minute teaching session suitable for front-line care home staff focussing on a topic which would help them to deliver good care for residents living with dementia. The session will be delivered to a small panel of academics, people affected by dementia and students.